WHAT THEY SAY ABOUT RCS

"I've known and worked closely with Whitney Reid since 2005. She is the consummate professional, as well as being one of the most knowledgeable resources on golf club management I've seen in the several years I've worked in the industry.

Her extensive experience consulting with clubs, both domestically and internationally, allows her to use her unique and innovative skills to either initiate new programs or upgrade current food and beverage and golf services."

TRAINING THE TRAINER

for supervisors and mid-level managers

Training in private clubs is one of the most difficult aspects of management, and is often done without adequate resources. Yet, without doubt, it is one of the most important investments any club can make in its future. In today's competitive environment, every employee must be a top producer and solid performer.

A successful club culture requires a successful training culture.

This training helps supervisory staff learn how to conduct its own training regimen that:

- Ensures long-term professional growth and development
- Upgrades or improves standards
 - Corrects poor performance
 - Orients new employees
- Ensures high returns on employee operations

PARTICIPANTS WILL LEARN:

- The four benefits of training
- The seven qualities of a good trainer
- How to create a training task list
- An effective four-step training process
- Four common communication and behavioral styles and how to use them to your advantage

ENGAGING. INTERACTIVE. COMPREHENSIVE.
